Dialogue A.

A: Don't touch it! You're not allowed to touch the exhibits.

B: OK, I only wanted to feel what it's made of. Do you think it was really made more than a thousand years ago?

A: Look at the label. It says 500 BC. Egypt was part of the huge Persian Empire. And this stone vase was found near Cairo.

B: It looks really impressive. How do you think they managed to make such things without modern instruments and devices?

Dialogue B.

A: Look, it's beautiful! I think Kate will like it if we give it to her for her birthday.

B: Don't be silly. Where would she put such a huge vase? She has a tiny flat and... Look, I think this is just what we need.

A: A book?

B: It's not just a book. It's an Art History book. And the DVD is included. Kate will be delighted to get it. We'll buy it right now. Where's the cash desk?

A: Wait a moment. Are you sure we've got enough money for it?

Dialogue C.

A: Is it your suitcase, sir?

B: Yes, it's mine.

A: And where did you get that vase? Antiques need special permission to be taken out of the country.

B: But I bought it at an auction! Legally! I've got the papers for the purchase. Here they are.

A: OK. Wait here, please. I have to make some inquiries.

Dialogue D.

A: Everyone is ready, aren't they? You'll need all your concentration for today's work.

B: Are we going to draw anything special?

A: Yes, and you won't need your oils today. We'll be drawing in pencil. It's going to need a very skilful use of light and shadow. Look at this object.

B: It's just an old ceramic vase. You said we'd need skills...

A: It may seem easy to draw a vase, but I assure you that very special skills are needed to do it properly.

Speaker A. It's large and spacious. The wide board, desks and the teacher's table. But the most interesting feature is the special graffiti wall. We can write all kinds of questions of the material we are studying. For example, if you don't understand something, you can write your question on the wall and another student or teacher writes the answer.

Speaker B. I am always glad to come to this room sometimes before the lesson and study the maps on the wall and samples of rocks and stamps on the shells. Yes, I find geography very interesting. And it's not a problem for me to spend hours writing out facts about famous travellers and their discoveries. My favorite classroom activity is studying and completing maps.

Speaker C. My grade for the Math test was unusually high, but I'm not happy about it at all. My friend Tracy is not talking with me at all because of it. The thing is that in the exam room I sat next to Tracy and she is assured that I copied the answers from her paper. It's not true but she doesn't believe me. She thinks I cheated and she hates dishonesty.

Speaker D. I study in a large and modern school with a well-equipped classroom, a good gym and the swimming pool. The latter are very important for me, because I use them practically every day. When the lessons are over my friends and I go to the gym to exercise or to play volleyball. Twice a week I have a swimming class and my friend does all kinds of experiments in the school chemistry laboratory.

Speaker E. Students performance depends a lot on their ability to reserch for information by themselves. On the shelves the books are arranged in the alphabetical order. To find the book you need to know the ofer. There is also an electronic catalogue and access to internet resourses. Just hike in a key word to find what you want.

Now we are ready to start.

Phillip: Hi, Andrea! It's really nice outdoors. Fancy a walk to the park or somewhere else?

Andrea: Sorry, Phillip, I've got some things to do.

Phillip: Which means no, right? Ok, what are you so busy with? Your homework? Andrea: No, it's not that. I'm busy with some writing.

Phillip: A diary? All the girls in my class are writing diaries now. Funny, they prefer old-fashioned notebooks to normal blogs.

Andrea: It's because a diary is a private matter and you can't trust your thoughts to the internet. Anyway, I'm not writing any diary. It's a story.

Phillip: A story? What's it about? And why are you writing it?

Andrea: You know, I've got an idea to take part in the competition for young writers. It's called 'My first book'. The prize is a two-week online writing course, which is delivered by world-famous authors.

Phillip: Sounds impressive. I can't write but I like reading. Historical novels especially.

Andrea: Me too. It's my favourite genre. History and literature in one book.

Philip: Really? I thought all girls read only love stories.

Andrea: And I thought all boys watched only action films and detective films.

Phillip: You've always been top of the class at Literature. And your school essays have always been the best. But I never knew that you took writing so seriously.

Andrea: I don't ...but... by the way... we are staging a play at our school theatre. Would you like to come and see the performance?

Phillip: If nothing urgent turns up, yes, I would. Are you playing the part of a beautiful princess there?

Andrea: There won't be any princesses! No kings, no dragons, pirates or witches. It's going to be a serious play. And you won't see me on the stage anyway. I'll be reading the narration – you will only hear my voice.

Phillip: I'm already intrigued. Did you write the play too?

Andrea: No, it wasn't me. We took a well-known classical play and changed it. In brief... it's like... One day all the characters from the 19th century wake up in our world... and their adventures start. One of the characters is a famous scientist, another one is a... No, I won't say anything else. Otherwise, it won't be interesting to watch the play.

Phillip: Ok-ok. I'm coming, for sure. You'll be a famous writer one day.

Andrea: Oh, no! I don't want to be a professional writer. I want to teach Literature and languages to children. And to adults too.

Phillip: Are you saying you find teaching more exciting than writing?

Andrea: Yeah. Teaching means communication with people. I love it. And writing is only a hobby to me.

Phillip: Right. And I bet you can make a very good language teacher. You speak French and German really well.

Andrea: I don't speak German, Phillip. I speak French and Spanish. As for German, it's on my list. I'm going to take a German course this spring.

Phillip: Sorry. You speak so many languages, no wonder I get them confused.

Andrea: Aha.

Phillip: Anyway. I understand you are going to write your story the whole day today. I'm leaving for the park. We are having a skateboard competition and I can't miss it. And then we are going to the cinema. A new film with Keanu Reeves is on.

Andrea: Wait a minute. What time does the film start?

Phillip: At 7 pm.

Andrea: OK. I think I can join you for the film. I'll be in the cinema at ten to seven.

Phillip: Right. See you there then...

Dear Ben,

Thanks for your last letter, and sorry I couldn't answer you earlier, exams as well. No, I haven't seen that film yet.

I like to watch many kinds of movies: from old ones to the moderns. My favorite genre is thriller, because it's very scary and unpredictable. I watch films almost every day at home, but I have to admit that watching them on wide screen is much cooler. All the special effects and the way the actors play seems way more impressing. If I make a film one day it will be related with biography, my childhood and the people who surround me. In other words It will be very intimate.

Write back soon.

Best wishes,

Emma

The Olympic Games have a very long history. As far as I know they began in Greece in ancient times and a lot of people were involved in the games. The ancient list of kind of sports included running, wrestling, boxing, discus throwing, the pentathlon and so on. Modern list includes various kinds such as jumping, basketball, volleyball, hockey, swimming and other popular kinds. Many nations of the world support their athletic teams during the competitions. There are two types of games: Olympic winter and summer games.

Nowadays not only amateurs, but also professional athletes can take part in these games. Each country should send a team of the best athletes and the whole nation supports them. The winners of each event are given not only certain number of points, but also some prizes and medals.

The Olympic games are extremely popular nowadays, that is why a lot of people consider them to be important. These games provide us an opportunity to meet like-minded people, get acquainted with foreigners and learn something new. Moreover, the International Olympic Committee decides where each Olympics will be held and ask different cities to be hosts. It can help in resolving the national economic problems or just to broaden the horizons of some nations. That is why I like The Olympic Games. They unite the world and remind us about the importance of peace.
